What This Visa Lets You Do In Australia?

- The Employer Nomination Scheme (subclass 186) allows skilled workers to stay in Australia indefinitely.
- Applicants can move to and from Australia for a span of 5 years after the visa has been granted (after that a resident return visa is required to move back to Australia).
- The visa holders can even bring their family to Australia with permissions for work, study, and travel in and out of the country.
- Applicants can take advantage of Medicare, a scheme which covers healthcare expenses.
- You can even apply for citizenship in Australia (depending on eligibility).
- Sponsor your relatives for permanent residency if eligible.

General Eligibility Criteria For This Visa

- Applicants are eligible to apply only when they have been nominated by the sponsoring business owner.
- It is obligatory to apply for same stream and occupation as per the nomination by the employer; failing which your application could be rejected.
- File the application within 6 months of approval of nomination.
- Applicants of Temporary Residence Transition or Direct Entry Streams must demonstrate the minimum standards of competent English.
- Applicants must pass the character test. They must be safe of criminal records, immigration detention, and offensive convictions.
- Applicants must possess the relevant skill for the nominated occupation. A valid documentation representing three years of work experience is compulsory.
